DETAILED ACTION

Oath/Declaration

1. The oath or declaration is defective. A new oath or declaration in compliance with 37 CFR 1.67(a) identifying this application by application number and filing date is required. See MPEP §§ 602.01 and 602.02.

The oath or declaration is defective because:

It does not identify the city and either state or foreign country of residence of each inventor. The residence information may be provided on either on an application data sheet or supplemental oath or declaration.

2. Applicant has not given a post office address anywhere in the application papers as required by 37 CFR 1.33(a), which was in effect at the time of filing of the oath or declaration. A statement over applicant's signature providing a complete post office address is required.

Drawings

3. The drawings submitted on 21 January 2004 have been reviewed and determined to facilitate understanding of the invention. The drawings are accepted as submitted.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

4. The following is a quotation of the first paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall contain a written description of the invention, and of the manner and process of making and using it, in such full, clear, concise, and exact terms as to enable any person skilled in the art to which it pertains, or with which it is most nearly connected, to make and use the same and shall set forth the best mode contemplated by the inventor of carrying out his invention.

5. Claim 3 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, first paragraph, as failing to comply with the enablement requirement. The claim(s) contains subject matter which was not described in the specification in such a way as to enable one skilled in the art to which it pertains, or with which it is most nearly connected, to make and/or use the invention. The description supplied in the specification does not enable one skilled in the art to use the optical device having a gap in the waveguide. Particularly, it is not clear from the description how the controller applies stimulus to the variable refractive index material.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

6. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

7. Claims 1-2 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being inherently anticipated by U.S.

Patent No. 6,498,877 to Chowdhury et al.

8. Chowdhury et al. describes an optical device for controlling the propagation of light within an optical waveguide having an axi-symmetrical core (12) surrounded by a cladding (14) with a fixed index of refraction, a control region, a grating in the core, a variable-index material (16) surrounding the cladding having an index of refraction the is controllable in response to an applied stimulus and a controller (24) to apply the stimulus (see Figures 2-5 and Columns 2 and 4-7). Chowdhury et al. does not specifically describe the device and it's method of use for controlling phase delay of light in an optical waveguide. However since the device and method of use described by Chowdhury et al. affects the propagation constant of the core (see Column 2, Lines 50-60), it inherently controls the phase delay. Further, Chowdhury et al. does not specifically describe the cladding of the control region having a radial thickness less than a penetration depth of an evanescent field of light propagating in the waveguide core. However, for the device of Chowdhury et al. to function as described, the cladding would inherently have to have a radial thickness less than a penetration depth of an evanescent field of light propagating in the waveguide core.

Conclusion

9. The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure. U.S. Patents Nos. 6,111,999 to Espindola et al., 6,221,565 to Jain et al. and 6,246,814 to Park describe grating devices with variable-index materials.
